September

social media video games chatting studying watching movies

September is the month when schools start here. Since it is our exam year, we have been away from social media this year, but still I've used my mobile phone to access social media and chat with friends. And computer to play video games because I'm an addict, I've been playing cs:go for a long time and my friends always invite me to play so. Basically, since it was the first month I used my mobile phone for entertainment purposes and computer for the same reason as well. Used my mobile phone for around 3 hours a day and computer around 2.5 hours a day on average.

October

It's the 2nd month of school and I'm still playing computer like crazy. I watch movies on the internet, from Netflix and a movie site named 720p film izle. Apart from both playing video games and watching stuff, I've used YouTube for watching entertainment videos. I used my computer for around 4 hours and phone around 2 hours a day. Whose purpose was mostly for entertainment as I stated before.

November

In this month, I thought it was best for me to delete video games since I have to study harder than ever. I basically removed all my games out of my computer and tried to give myself to my lessons more. Still, I used my mobile phone to reach social media, listen to music and watch some movies from my computer again as the last month.

December

This month, I almost fully gave up on my entertainment life because I really tried giving myself to my exam. I barely used my computer for entertainment purposes as well as my phone. I used my computer to watch lectures and my mobile phone to listen podcasts from spotify about lectures again. My mobile phone usage for this month a day is around 2 hours and computer around 2 hours too. It was the first month for me to use technology for only educational purposes.

January

First month of 2023, it wasn't a start for me because I devoted myself to my lessons in the previous months. This month was a calm month for me since I didn't do much except studying. I used my Playstation to play some games only in night times, I had some hard times to sleep so I had to find a way to use my that free time. I used my Playstation an hour a day, my computer to watch lectures from YouTube and mobile phone for communicating from both Instagram and WhatsApp which lasted an hour a day on average.

February

This month was basically a tragedy. An earthquake which was massive, hit Turkey and it affected all us. It was hard for me and my people to get over so it was a month of sadness and pain for us. But still I used my mobile phone around 2 hours a day and my computer an hour or an hour and half. I used my phone mostly for communicational purposes and computer for to watch lessons from YouTube.

March

Without a doubt, it was the greatest month for me. Our guests came and I don't remember having such a good week for a long time. I didn't even need social media or a computer when they were there, but, unfortunately they stayed only for 5 days. Apart from their visit, I still studied to my lessons online and played some computer games. I've used my phone for around 2 hours on average a day and computer an hour a day.
